Venus Sextile Mars & Jupiter

For Valentine's Day this year we are blessed with Smiling Venus connecting with Eager Mars. This romantic and sexual time, which actually starts Feb 12th continues on until the 21st of Feb. Also on Valentine's Day, Jovial Jupiter joins this pair of lovers and the party really gets exuberant and lasts until the 19th. Expect much laughter, joking, horsing around and high spirits.

Expressing Ourselves - It's a wonderful time for all of us to begin writing, even creating a book or an informational website. That's because Jupiter is all about getting what we have to say out to the world far and wide. Jupiter also accelerates having an enjoyable time in the great outdoors, with sports, staying overnight somewhere and of course being enthusiastic, as well as romantic as Venus, with our sweeties.

Other places, like our favorite place of worship, can bring us joy at this time, because Jupiter also energizes religion. We could find ourselves very optimistic and philosophical about being, doing and having in our lives.

Mars brings objectivity, which means we can take tangible advantage of our opportunities. Venus, on the other hand, likes to be practical and use moderation, and Jupiter sees the future of our partnerships at this time. With Mars added to Jupiter we can easily start putting energy into a brand new relationship or towards a new horizon of an ongoing relationship and into areas where benevolence and loving others can be initiated. It's a wonderful time to explore possibilities of bonding more with others on a one-to-one level. The time is right to cement existing relationships and to begin successful new ones.

Yet, it also is an active time or activity based time. Some of that activity is the togetherness urge which will align purposes and begin joint ventures, enterprises or just enjoyable social times.

It is also a very expressive time -- extroverted or outward oriented behavior. Instead of being receptive, the urge is now to be with others or at least push ourselves in that direction at this time.

It is also a very fiery time, which corresponds with lots of zeal and aspiration. The soft earthy and intellectual air of Venus will add its touch of smoothness and appropriateness to the mix and add balance to the other two enthusiastic planets. This will help the energies be harmonious and appreciated by others.

This is a successful time because we have the big picture of Jupiter to see where we are going, the initiative to get started with Mars and the love of Venus for harmonizing and sustaining. We can apply it to our own situations in life, be jolly and start to enjoy - with gusto!

Let us appreciate the grateful joy and enthusiasm at this time! Namaste.
